

Victor Williams

Victor's early life was on a small bush farm in northern Saskatchewan and he has a continuing interest in rural and wilderness landscapes.

Basically self taught, but since retiring from the Public Service, Victor has spent a great deal of time studying the works of artists such as the Group of Seven and European and American Impressionists.

Victor works in oils and watercolours. He travels throughout the Ottawa Valley as well as other parts of Canada for subject matter. Most works are painted on site and later finished at his studio in Manotick.
